As a means of assessing the impact of the proposed changes on the land use patterns of the county, the Department of Planning and Development has prepared a map of the county showing the proposed changes in land use patterns. The map is divided into three main areas: the urban area, the rural area, and the coastal area. The urban area is defined as the area within the urban boundary, the rural area as the area outside the urban boundary, and the coastal area as the area within the coastal boundary. The map shows the proposed changes in land use patterns for each of these areas, and the impact of these changes on the land use patterns of the county as a whole. The map is a valuable tool for assessing the impact of the proposed changes on the land use patterns of the county, and for making decisions about the future of the county.
